1.1. Each member of the commission marks a score of the potential provider for each criterion on the evaluation sheet. The points assigned by the competition commission by all criteria are summed up and the average score for each section is displayed. Based on the results of the calculation of points, the potential provider is given a final evaluation of its bid expressed in points. A ground handling service provider who scores the most points based on the results of the competition is declared a preferred bidder. The minimum threshold value for the preferred bidder is seventy (70) points. When holding a competition, it is allowed to determine more than one preferred bidder, depending on the technical capabilities of the airport.
